"IMPULSION" GIRL'S MURDER PLEA

GERM DEATH DEFENSE GETS BIG SET BACK

Attorneys Fail to Shag Faiman's Claim of Murder Plot With W. D. Shepherd
TRAIL GOES OVER TO MONDAY
McClintock's Heir Loses Plea For Release on Bond And Goes Back to Jail

(By Universal Service)
CHICAGO, March 21.—William D. Shepherd's plea that he be given bond even to the extent of half a million dollars, pending his trial on a charge of slaying his millionaire ward, William Nelson McClintock, was continued today until Monday after Dr. C. C. Faiman, the state's star witness, had only partially repeated his story. Shepherd was ordered back to the county jail by Chief Justice Jacob H. Hopkins and Faiman again was sent to a hotel under guard. After his story has been completed he, too, will be arraigned as co-defendant with Shepherd on the murder charge. Dr. Faiman, placed on the stand by Shepherd's attorneys in an effort to prove that the state had no real evidence against Shepherd, repeated in detail his story of supplying Shepherd with typhoid bacteria knowing that it was planned to administer them to young McClintock who only a short time before had become of age and made a will in Shepherd's favor. "Cross examination failed to shake Faiman's story in any particular and when adjournment was taken with him still on the stand State's Attorney Robert H. Crowe and his assistants manifestly were pleased with the way he had withstood the ordeal. "Faiman has told the truth, therefore he could not be caught in the defense's efforts to entrap him," said Crowe. The defense on the other hand was still confident that when examination is renewed Monday they will find some way to provide the charge that "Faiman is just a liar, that's all."

PULLMAN TRACT OWNERS SEEK STREET PAVING

Ten property owners of the Pullman district have submitted a petition to City Clerk A. C. Faris, requesting that the city council act on the improvement of several streets in the district. Faris will submit the petition to the council when they meet tomorrow night. The petition calls for the improvement of thirty-third and thirty-fifth streets, between Wall and Ohio avenues; Chip, Center and Wall avenues, between thirty-third and thirty-fifth streets. The property owners want concrete sidewalks, curbs and gutters in addition to the improvement of the streets with a permanent asphaltic base and a national wearing surface.

Assemblyman Robert Easley Is Interviewed on Tax Measure

In a talk with a representative of the RECORD-HERALD yesterday, Assemblyman Robert P. Easley, of Contra Costa county in the state legislature, stated that it was his desire to serve in his official capacity in such a manner that would meet with the approval of the great majority of the citizens of the country, and not any minority. The big fight for the remainder of the session at Sacramento is to be the proposed heavy increase in taxes on owners of automobiles, by the raising of the tax on gasoline. It is generally conceded that the oil companies do not pay this tax, but the individual, and common reports would seem to indicate that the automobilists of this county, feel that they are bled enough at the present time, without the burden being made any heavier. SUPERVISORS FAVOR TAX. The supervisors at Martinez, a short time ago adopted a resolution in favor of the tax, taking the position that the action was expressive of the wishes of the people of the county. Many people in Richmond have been interviewed about the matter, and without an exception, they are opposed to the tax, and state further that if the matter were left to the voters of the western section, which represents about 60 per cent of the vote of the county, that the result would be almost unanimous against the proposed tax. OPEN TO SUGGESTION. Assemblyman Easley did not state what his position would be of the bill, except he desired to carry out the wishes of his constituents, and if he does this, he will undoubtedly be opposed to the bill. Easley is open minded on all questions, and is anxious to receive suggestions from his many constituents at any time, as to their views on impending legislation. While Easley is a resident of the eastern end, he realizes that he is representing every section of Contra Costa, and is alert to the interests of every part. MAKING REPUTATION. Robert Easley was in Richmond for several hours yesterday afternoon, meeting many friends, and conferring with people of this city, regarding measures that have been introduced in the legislature at Sacramento, and which affect the interests of the thousands of residents of the western part of this county. Reports coming from Sacramento would indicate that Easley is making a mark for himself, and doing work for his constituents for which he is entitled to a great deal of credit. He is one of the hardest workers in the assembly, and makes it his business to see that nothing is slipped over that is detrimental to the interests of this county.

W. D. SHEPHERD, HEIR OF "MILLIONAIRE ORPHAN," INDICTED WHEN DOCTOR TELLS OF "POISON PLOT"

The photograph shows Shepherd at right with Sergt. George McClintock. Following testimony before a Chicago grand jury, which was conducting an inquiry into the death of "Billy" McClintock, given by Dr. Charles Faiman, Shepherd was placed under arrest on an indictment and is now being held in jail on a charge of murder. Young McClintock died on December 5 last, of typhoid fever. Dr. Faiman told the state authorities that Shepherd heard McClintock at his school, studied typhoid germ cultures, and made a bargain with him to inoculate the youth with typhoid germs. Faiman was to receive $100,000, he said, from the millions inherited by Shepherd from McClintock.

TUNNEL WORK AT SAN PABLO BEGINS JUNE 1

The East Bay Municipal Utility district could be ready to advertise for bids for the construction of the tunnel from San Pablo reservoir to the eastward by June 1, if money for the work is available. It was reported to the directors last night in Oakland by Arthur P. Davis, chief engineer and general manager. Davis was recently authorized to take what steps he could toward the beginning of this project as well as toward the building of the 1 mile railroad from Valley Springs to the Lancha Plana dam site. He said surveys and detailed estimates would allow bids to be called on the tunnel June 1 and on certain sections of the Mokelumne aqueduct in the direction of Bay Point by July 1. A suggestion of Director James H. Boyer the directors voted to procure from county surveyors detailed descriptions of all property holders along the proposed railroad line as well as in the reservoir site and at the actual dam site to assist in condemnation proceedings. The directors will go to Sacramento next Thursday to attend the meeting of the Assembly committee which is considering the validation acts for the $39,000,000 bond.

Evolution of The Flapper Is Topic For Church Talk

Rev. C. G. Lindemann of the Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church announces that on Sunday evening at 7:30 he will deliver his sermon "The Evolution of the Flapper," or "Who Sinned?" He planned to deliver this sermon several weeks ago but because of a severe rain storm which cut down the usual fine Sunday evening audience it was postponed, but he now says that rain or shine it will be delivered Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Hutt Brown will spend today in Saratoga, as will Mr. and Mrs. William Fosterling.

Bates, government flier, connected with the East Bay squadron, will arrive at the Richmond air landing field in a government plane at 9:30 o'clock this morning. They will be met by a representative of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the airfield. The purpose of the trip is for the two officers to ascertain the condition of the field which is believed suitable for use as a "refresher" base, or a field used for practice purposes by fliers who have not been in the air for a considerable period. Bates is also the representative of the California State automobile association of Richmond.

MOTHER SLAYER GOES TO TRIAL MONDAY MAR. 23

"Irresistible Impulse" To Be Scientific Defense of Dorothy Ellingson
LIKE FAMOUS CHICAGO CASE
"Motor Reactions" Forced 16-Year-Old Girl to Slay, Is Peculiar Claim

BY RICHARD J. MATERS
Staff Correspondent Universal Service
SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—Dorothy Ellingson, the 16 year old confessed slayer of her mother, will appear in Superior Judge Harold Landecker's court Monday morning, when her trial on the charge of murder begins with the selection of a jury. The scientific defense that will have a resemblance of the now famous case of Nathan Leopold and "Dickie" Loeb of Chicago, will base their case on "Irresistible Impulse," it was indicated tonight by the attorneys who are handling the girl's legal affairs. The battery of noted psychiatrists and psychologists will be the greatest array of its kind ever seen in a court of the West. The final report of scientists and doctors, after weeks of close studying of the "Jazz-mad" Dorothy who shot her mother because the latter refused her permission to attend a dance, that the girl at the moment she committed the murder could not, because of "motor reactions" and "mental structure," combat the impulse to slay that seized her childish mentality.

UNIQUE PLEA PREPARED. "Impulsion" a plea unique to the courts of California and the west generally, will be based upon the results of lengthy tests, quizzes and examinations that are the last word in the introduction of psychiatry into American jurisprudence and will be introduced into the trial by the defense to support their plea. The defense scientists will include Dr. Jan Don Ball, noted American psychiatrist; Dr. Fred Clark, head of the Stockton State Hospital; Dr. Norman Williamson, also of the Stockton State Hospital and Dr. Geo. Ordahl, of the Sonoma State Home for Feeble Minded. The defense attorneys are Alexander Mooslin, former police judge, Sylvester McAtee and Walter McGovern. The prosecution of the matricide will be in the hands of Harman D. Skillin, Assistant District Attorney, while Dr. Joseph Catton, of San Francisco will endeavor to refute the arguments of the defense specialists.

After several days illness, Louis H. Schrader, Richmond manufacturer and furniture dealer for the last 22 years, died Friday night at Sonora where he has recently resided. He was engaged in the hardware business, for some time but a few years later he entered the furniture business. He built up his business from a small beginning to one of the largest establishments in the east bay, and recently expanded to include Sonoma, where he was held for about two years. Mr. Schrader was the husband of Mrs. Maude Schrader of Sonoma; the father of Louis Edward Schrader, Mrs. Catherine Lemos of Pittsburg, Mrs. Edna Yager of Richmond, Raymond Schrader of San Francisco, Herbert Schrader of Richmond, Mrs. Gertrude Ohde, Mrs. Jeannette Herman and Mrs. Mildred Hayden of Richmond. He was the uncle of Mrs. Helen Johnson, who in recent months has been manager of the Richmond store of the company. Upon receipt of word of Schrader's death, Louis E. Schrader and R. E. PALO ALTO MAN QUILTS IN FACE OF ACCUSATION

Investigation of Charges of Girl Against Doctor to Be Investigated
ACT WILL NOT HALT INQUIRY
Aged Physician Resigns After Scandal Talk Impairs His Usefulness, Claim

Dr. Welcome N. Powell, white-haired chief clerk of the Veterans' Hospital at Palo Alto, accused of undue attentions to a staff of young women under his charge, resigned yesterday. Although Dr. Powell stated that he did so in order to avoid embarrassment and reflection upon the institution, it was announced in San Francisco by M. E. Lynch, controlling officer of the Veterans' Bureau in this district, that the investigation into the charges would go on, despite the resignation. "This is not an admission of guilt, as an indiscretion has been my only fault. I do this as I believe it is to the best interests of the government," said Dr. Powell in tendering his resignation. PROBE PROMISED. "We have got to get the facts to close up this case. We shall go ahead with the investigation," said Lynch. A previous tender of his resignation by Dr. Powell had been declined by Dr. Parker G. Borden, medical officer in charge of the hospital, because it stipulated that the investigation be dropped. Following this exchange, Dr. Powell held a lengthy conference with Dr. Borden, at the end of which he resigned without stipulation. Dr. Borden, did however, write a letter to Dr. Powell to smooth his path to retirement after twenty-five years of honorable service in the medical department of the United States Army. Dr. Borden's attitude is said to be one of doubt of Dr. Powell's actual guilt of anything further than what he, himself, styles "indiscretions."

FIVE YEAR OLD GIRL RECOVERS 20-FOOT FALL

Little Barbara Metcalf, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Metcalf of Oleum, who fell from a tank near her home, last Tuesday, breaking both wrists, is reported to be doing very nicely. The little girl was at play with several of her friends on the day of her injury and in a child-like manner attempted to scale a ladder on a water tank in the vicinity of her home. When she had attained the height of about 20 feet she loosened her grip on the rungs of the ladder and fell to the hard earth below. She received two broken wrists as a result of the fall, but sustained no other injuries. Little Barbara was rushed to Berkeley where she was treated by Dr. Hitchcock. It is expected that the bones will mend in a short while and she will soon be able to get out again from her home, where she is now confined.

Official Paper Of The City Of Richmond, California

WHY I BELIEVE IN RICHMOND AND THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

BY HARLEY R. CARTER

Manager and Vice-President Richmond Furniture Co.

I believe in a Chamber of Commerce, for the reason that there must be some central organization acting in a neutral capacity and functioning as a clearing house for community development of ideas and information.

It might be said that the paramount duty of such an organization is to take these ideas, mold them into practical shape and map out accordingly a definite, consistent and efficient policy of community betterment.

The geographical position of our city, as we will all agree, calls for a systematic program of industrial development so that the fullest benefits might be derived from all of our natural advantages. When such a plan has been worked out and is under way it is my belief that factories are sure to locate here—and a Chamber of Commerce is the organization to construct and supervise our efforts.

OUR GUARANTEE OF LIBERTY

President Coolidge has just written a foreword to a special edition of "The Constitution of the United States", by James W. Beck, Solicitor General, 10,000 copies of which have been ordered by Eldridge R. Johnson of Camden, N. J., for free distribution to public schools and libraries throughout the country.

President Coolidge says: "It is of first importance that the study of the Constitution should be an essential part of the education of the American youth."

"Mr. Beck has been recognized for years as an authority on our fundamental law. He is a lawyer of broad culture and wide learning. He has not only an acquaintance with the practical side of law from his long experience at the bar, but as a student, has a deep insight into the theory of our institutions. In private practice and as Solicitor General of the United States he has had that intimate contact with our laws which is the best foundation for a sound understanding of their spirit, their truth and their wisdom. He understands the practical application of the Constitution to actual affairs of life."

"While we cannot all be trained in the technicalities of the law, we should all have some idea of our fundamental institutions. We need to know their relationship to our daily life, the reasons for their existence, the benefits we derive from them, and necessity to ourselves for their perpetuation. We must know that the Court is our Court."

"The Constitution is not self-perpetuating. If it is to survive, it will be because it has public support. Such support is not a passive but an active operation. It means making adequate sacrifice to maintain what is of general benefit."

"The Constitution of the United States is the final refuge of every right that is enjoyed by any American citizen. So long as it is observed, those rights will be secure. Whenever it falls into disrespect or disrepute, the end of orderly government, as we have known it for more than 125 years, will be at hand. The Constitution represents a government of law. There is only one other authority and that is a government of force. Americans must make their choice between these two. One signifies justice and liberty; the other, tyranny and oppression. To live under the American Constitution is the greatest political privilege that was ever accorded to the human race."

NO FREEDOM LIKE UNITED STATES

An anti-Bolshevik meeting was held in New York recently to hear Morris Gordin tell "Why I lost my faith in Communistic Russia."

Newspaper reports stated that "One-third of the 600 persons at the meeting were women. The audience applauded every point Gordin made against present conditions in Russia, and there seemed to be unanimous approval of his declaration that Russia was slowly but surely progressing toward a 'republic of the United States of Russia.'"

"The speaker, formerly a student at University of Chicago, was a draft-soldier in the American army during the World War. Until 1921, when he went to Russia, he was one of leaders of the New York Communist Party. He returned here last September. Describing his conclusions regarding his nearly three years of experience in Russia, Gordin said:

"I went there expecting to find a heaven of the people and for the workers; instead I found a hell. The people have no say in their government, and little if any freedom in commercial or social activities. It is all a sickening dead level of political and industrial slavery, where the people are directed by a little group of dictators."

"The people may change this situation at any time, but when I left they seemed everywhere, so far as I noted, to be passively resentful, too hopeless to assert themselves. All around there was going on the economic, industrial and moral ruin of Russia."

"In the meantime the leaders of this terrible situation are holding on to the shreds of Communism in their visionary scheme of

The Superior Skirt Finds a True Affinity in the Peasant Blouse. LIKE Scotch plaids, bobbed heads, and innumerable other details of present-day fashions, peasant blouses can be remotely traced to the war. Or rather, in the case of the peasant blouse, to the aftermath of the war. Both in London and Paris, Russian aristocrats, driven from their homes, frequently opened shops as makers of women's clothes. Some of them have taken rank with the great dressmakers in Paris, others carry on a simpler task of selling blouses, blouses, and small accessories, embroidered in native Russian fashion. Thus they give employment to themselves and numerous needlewomen.

The blouses worn by the Russian peasant proved especially well liked when it came into fashion some three or four years ago. What made it characteristically "peasant" was this arrangement of fullness around the neck, the manner of running the sleeves right to the neckline and frequently the use of gay peasant embroidery. Usually the sleeve is long with considerable fullness about the wrist, which is gathered into a narrow band, sometimes tied in a little bow.

Quite recently the creation has come for an immensely increased interest in this type of blouse. This is the peasant skirt, which appears at its best when confined with just this sort of blouse. The sketch shows one of the new straight-line suspender skirts of ray line cloth worn with a blouse of white with a shawl, a right colored cross-stitch embroidery.

With the peasant blouse designed to be worn with the suspender skirt, the embroidery appears on sleeves and a little at the front. However, there are time blouses of the peasant sort that show elaborate embroidery all the way down. And these time blouses are well chosen for spring and summer, either in cotton voile or in white or light tinted crepe de Chine.

For the nursery or play-room there are sets consisting of top, chest and skirt to match. All being covered with the same material. These sets are made of a light blue or light green cloth.

and mix until smooth, then add two tablespoons of baking powder and the whites of the eggs thoroughly beaten. Bake on a very hot griddle. Compote of Apples: Put one cup sugar into half a pint of water, and let it boil fairly fast for ten minutes to make a syrup. In the meantime peel six medium-sized apples, cut them in halves, and remove the cores, then rub each piece over with lemon juice. Put the thin rind and juice of one lemon into the syrup, and lay in the pieces of apple. Now lower the gas, and let the apples simmer very slowly until soft, after this carefully lift them out, and arrange in a glass dish.

Boil the syrup quickly again for two minutes, and allow to get a little cool before straining over the apples. When quite cool serve with cream.

Beef Olives: Have ready even slices of cold rather underdone roast beef. Grate one teaspoon of fine bread-crumbs and mince one heaping teaspoon of parsley. 1 tablespoon of suet and one of onion. Mix these together and season well with pepper and salt. Add 1 well beaten egg, place a little of the mixture on each slice of meat then roll up and tie with fine string. Place the rolls in a casserole and pour over them some gravy, cover, and stand in a slow oven for about 1 hour. To serve, make a mound of mashed potatoes in the center of the dish, arrange the olives all round, reheat gravy and pour it over.

BAREE, SON OF KAZAN

James Oliver Curwood

A LOVE EPIC OF THE FAR NORTH

Copyright, 1917, by Doubleday, Page & Co.

"BAREE, SON OF KAZAN," a Vitaphone Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog, is an Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

McTaggart, the factor, lured Pierrot, the trapper, away from his cabin and, in his absence, went there himself, shot Baree, the wolf-dog, then gathered Nepeese, the trapper's daughter, in his arms. The girl was fighting desperately to free herself when Pierrot returned. Instantly the two men squared off and a terrific life and death struggle followed. Pierrot got the intruder on the floor and was choking him when McTaggart, twice pulling the trigger of his revolver as he lay, killed the girl's father.

What she saw in the Factor's face dragged her out of the numbness of her grief back to the abyss of her own peril. He was standing over her. In his face there was no pity, nothing of horror at what he had done—only an insane exultation as he looked—not at Pierrot's dead body, but at her. He put out a hand, and it rested on her head. She felt his thick fingers crumpling her hair, and his eyes blazed like embers of fire behind watery films. She struggled to rise, but with his hands at her hair he held her down.

"Great God!" she breathed. She uttered no other words, no plea for mercy, no other sound but a dry, hopeless sob. In that moment neither of them heard or saw Baree. Twice in crossing the cabin his hind-quarters had sagged to the floor. Now he was close to McTaggart. He wanted to give a single lunge to the man-brute's back and snap his thick neck as he would have broken a caribou's. But he had no strength. He was still partially paralyzed from his fore-shoulder back. But his jaws were like iron, and they closed savagely on McTaggart's leg.

"She turned and faced McTaggart."

With a yell of pain the Factor released his hold on the Willow, and she staggered to her feet. For a precious half-minute she was free, and as the Factor kicked and struck to loose Baree's hold, she ran to the cabin door and out into the day. The cold air struck her face; it filled her lungs with new strength; and without thought of where she might lie she ran through the snow into the forest.

McTaggart appeared at the door just in time to see her disappear. His leg was torn where Baree had fastened his fangs, but he felt no pain as he ran in pursuit of the girl. She could not go far. An exultant cry, inhuman as the cry of a beast, came in a great breath from his gaping mouth as he saw that she was staggering weakly as she fled. He was halfway to the edge of the forest when Baree dragged himself over the threshold. His jaws were bleeding where McTaggart had kicked him again and again before his fangs gave way. Halfway between his ears was a seared spot, as if a red-hot poker had been laid there for an instant. This was where McTaggart's bullet had gone. A quarter of an inch deeper, and it would have meant death. As it was, it had been like the blow of a heavy club, paralyzing his senses and sending him limp and unconscious against the wall. He could move on his feet now without falling, and slowly he followed in the tracks of the man and the girl.

As she ran, Nepeese's mind became all at once clear and reasoning. She turned into the narrow trail over which McTaggart had followed her once before, but just before reaching the chasm, she swung sharply to the right. She could see McTaggart. He was not running fast, but was gaining steadily, as if enjoying the sight of her helplessness, as he had enjoyed it another way that day. Two hundred yards below the deep pool into which she had pushed the Factor—just beyond the shallows out of which he had dragged himself to safety—was the beginning of Baree's Gorge. An appalling thing was shaping itself in her mind as she ran to it—a thing that with each gasping breath she drew became more and more a great and glorious hope. At last she reached it and looked down. As she looked, there whispered up out of her soul and trembled on her lips the swan-song of her mother's people.

Our Fathers—come!
Come from out of the valley.
Guide us—for to-day we die,
And the winds whisper of death!

She raised her arms. Against the white wilderness beyond the chasm she stood tall and slim. Fifty yards behind her the Factor from Lac Bain stopped suddenly in his tracks. "Ah," he mumbled. "Is she not wonderful!" And behind McTaggart, coming faster and faster, was Baree.

Again the Willow looked down. She was at the edge, for she had no fear in this hour. Many times she had clung to Pierrot's hand as she looked over. Down there no one could fall and live. Fifty feet below her the water which never froze was smashing itself into froth among the rocks. It was deep and black and terrible, for between the narrow rock walls the sun did not reach it. The roar of it filled the Willow's ears.

She turned and faced McTaggart. Even then he did not guess, but came toward her again, his arms stretched out ahead of him. Fifty yards! It was not much, and shortening swiftly.

Once more the Willow's lips moved. After all, it is the mother soul that gives us faith to meet eternity—and it was to the spirit of her mother that the Willow called in the hour of death. With the call on her lips she plunged into the abyss, her wind-whipped hair clinging to her in a glistening shroud.

CHAPTER XXII

A moment later the Factor from Lac Bain stood at the edge of the chasm. His voice had called out in a hoarse bellow—a wild cry of disbelief and horror that had formed the Willow's name as she disappeared. He looked down, clutching his huge red hands and staring in ghastly suspense at the boiling water and black rocks far below. There was nothing there now—no sign of her, no last flash of her pale face and streaming hair in the white foam. And she had done that—to save herself from him!

The soul of the man-beast turned sick within him, so sick that he staggered back, his vision blinded and his legs tottering under him. He had killed Pierrot, and it had been a triumph; all his life he had played the part of the brute with a stoicism and cruelty that had known no shock—nothing like this that overwhelmed him now, numbing him to the marrow of his bones until he stood like one paralyzed. He did not see Baree. He did not hear the dog's whining cries at the edge of the chasm. For a few moments the world turned black for him; and then, dragging himself out of his stupor, he ran frantically along the edge of the gorge, looking down wherever his eyes could reach the water, striving for a glimpse of her. At last it grew too deep. There was no hope. She was gone—and she had faced that to escape him!

He mumbled that fact over and over again, stupidly, thickly, as though his brain could grasp nothing beyond it. She was dead. And Pierrot was dead. And he, in a few minutes, had accomplished it all.

He turned back toward the cabin—not by the trail over which he had pursued Nepeese, but straight through the thick bush. Great flakes of snow had begun to fall. He looked at the sky, where banks of dark clouds were rolling up from the south and east. The sun went out. Soon there would be a storm—a heavy snowstorm. The big flakes falling on his naked hands and face set his mind to work. It was lucky for him, this storm. It would cover everything—the fresh trails, even the grave he would dig for Pierrot.

It does not take such a man as the Factor long to recover from a moral concussion. By the time he came in sight of the cabin his mind was again at work on physical things—the necessities of the situation. The appalling thing, after all, was not that both Pierrot and Nepeese were dead, but that his dream was shattered. It was not that Nepeese was dead, but that he had lost her. This was his vital disappointment. The other thing—his crime—it was easy to cover.

Betrothal Told At Party At Richmond Club

The betrothal of Miss Florence Garfinkle, daughter of Louis Garfinkle, 708 Nevin avenue, to Ernest Marcus, recently of New York City, was announced at a delightful get-together party of relatives and friends of the couple at Richmond clubhouse last night.

The affair was of the nature of a dance with Weisberger's jazz orchestra furnishing the music. Blue and cream streamers were used most effectively as decorations. The streamers started at each of the four walls and ended in a beautiful cluster in the center of the room. The large fire-place was adorned with bouquets of small flowers.

Miss Garfinkle has lived in this city for a number of years during which time she made hosts of friends who will hasten to wish her happiness during her married life. It is expected that the ceremony will be performed in June.

The local officers put on the initiation ceremony for the Vallejo Elks.

Members assembled at the clubhouse at 6:30 o'clock and took the 7:30 p. m. boat at Oleum. They were brought back at an early hour this morning by a special boat.

Beacon Chapter "Kids Party" Is "Howling" Success

A kids party that lived up to the meaning of the word in its fullest sense was staged last night by Beacon chapter, No. 383, Order of the Eastern Star, in the Masonic hall. In charge of the party, together with the delicious banquet, were Homer Patterson and the Misses L. M. Young, Dorothy Pauley, Irene Lohr, Gladys Cox and Edna Lohr.

The first number on the program was the presentation of gifts to the Worthy Matron Florence Morgan and Worthy Patron Lud Johnson. Mrs. Morgan received a beautiful bouquet of sweet peas with a shower to which numerous tiny pink copies were attached.

Worthy Patron Johnson was the recipient of a neat little bib and a lovely nursing bottle, well filled with tepid milk from the contented cows in the vicinity of San Pablo. Con Bustin was in evidence at the affair with his famous line of songs and skits. His efforts were, as usual, received with hearty applause by those present.

On his program were the following numbers:

1. "Uncle Ezra", 2. Basketball stunt, 3. "German Band", 4. "General Burnsides", 5. Music of Many Lands, 6. Barnyard Imitations.

His regular performance was well filled out with little nursery rhymes that fitted in well with the rest of the numbers. The entertainment committee also had a number of very fine stunts that they presented while Bustin was taking his rest between acts.

Homer Patterson proved to be the main attraction of the evening however with his "Song of the Lost Sheep." He evoked roars of laughter and applause by his little offering.

A most original decoration scheme was very effectively carried out in the banquet hall. Lines of baby's clothes were hung from all corners and the center of the room, while the tables were covered with animal cut-outs. Dainty favors of all-day suckers were given each guest.

A short business session, presided over by the worthy matron and patron, immediately preceded the party. Only matters of routine business were taken up however.

Good Scores Turned In When Hexathlon Is Run at Y.M.C.A.

The Y. M. C. A. Hexathlon was run off yesterday at the Y, according to schedule and the boys as a whole turned in very good scores considering that this is the first year that the local Y has held this event.

Vernon Spies of the unlimited class won a silver medal by making a score of over 500 points, turning in 530 markers to his credit.

Five other boys made scores over 400 points entitling them to bronze medals. They were Everett Titmore, 462; Frank Fenix, 444; Ralph Gibson, 436; Robert Fenix, 427; and B. Picton, 404.

These six records will be sent to national headquarters to be entered in competition with the scores from all the Y. M. C. A.'s in the country.

Other high scores were made by Earl Rogers, 398; Richard Craig, 394; Harold Fitzpatrick, 387; Paul Maloney, 385; Richard Aiken, 381; and Leroy Barks, 375.

"Man of Action" Is Melodramatic Farce At Richmond Today

Not since "Officer 666" has there been produced for lovers of snappy comedy-drama a picture comparable with the latest Thomas H. Ince melodramatic farce, "A Man of Action," now running at the Richmond theatre. Douglas MacLean as Bruce MacAllister, a "Poor Little Rich Boy," who gets more "action" in twenty-four exciting hours than he ever dreamed of, was never funnier. Marguerite de la Motte as his spirited young fiancée, and Raymond Hatton as "Hoppy," bent on the invention of a "noiseless explosive," head a strong supporting cast.

Other features on the same program include "Back Stage" Hal Roach's latest comedy scream, featuring his little rascals "Our Gang"; "KinoGrams," built like a newspaper. Coming tomorrow, "Under the Red Robe" with Robert B. Mantell, John Charles Thomas, Alma Rubens and an all star cast.

Variety Bill Is Offered Today at California Theatre

There is plenty of good entertainment on the variety and picture program at the California theatre today with each act different from the predecessor.

"Penny of Hiss" is the title of Bartlett and McNally's offering of Jugglers and manipulations. There are so many forms of dancing that no two performances are alike and as these two boys are blessed with a bump or originally some new tricks can be looked forward to.

A sparkling series of songs, styles and steps aptly describes the act of Wicks and Earl a neatly dressed young couple with an abundance of talent and personality.

Cave, Penny and Charles, a mixed trio of musicians, with a versatile presentation of music, whistling and song. These are an array of instruments introduced including flute, piccolo, violin and piano. Mr. Charles is the originator of the "Alligator" and "upside down" doing all the latest dance steps on his hands.

Comedy singing and dancing are combined in the Russell and Fields act. This clever young couple have just completed a comprehensive tour of the big eastern cities.

An aerial acrobatic novelty with Mary and Joe Sells as the principals. They have a routine of new and daring stunts to offer presented in a graceful and easy manner. Patrons will like these clever gymnasts.

Mario Prevost and Monte Blue, whose names have become imbedded in the mind of every film fan by reason of their work in "The Marriage Circle" will be seen today in another outstanding photoplay. This is no less a picture than Elinor Glyn's "How to Educate a Wife," made into a Warner Brothers Classic of the screen.

Elinor Glyn's pungent satire and shrewd discernment have been visualized in this photoplay in such a manner that it will appeal alike to men and women of all ages and stations.

Other features on the same program include "Happy Though Married," a comedy scream; "KinoGrams," Carl Richard's California orchestra; Larry Canelo at the organ.

SORE CHEST and NERVOUSNESS
In an Oakland Court on January 29, 1925, hundreds of people heard the testimony of Mr. D. Abilar of Mt. Eden and of Mr. J. Duarte of San Leandro, both of whom had been called as witnesses against Fong Wan by the Medical Board.

These men testified before the jury that the Fong Wan Herbs had permanently relieved both Sore Chest and Nervousness, and had made them strong and able to go back to work again.

They claim that no other treatment has repeatedly been vindicated in court and proved to be as effective as the Fong Wan Herbs.

This testimony was given in the first trial of Fong Wan in the latest campaign of the Medical Board against the Chinese Herbalists about the Bay.

MONETT MOTOR CO. ANNOUNCES SURPRISE CARS

Monett Motor Co. has another surprise for the Richmond motorists. This time it is a genuine surprise in that it saves many dollars to the purchaser.

Monett stated yesterday that he will have several 1924 Chevrolet right from the factory which he will sell for $350, which is more than $100 less than the regular price.

These cars have never been registered and are in every sense the same car one would be compelled to pay the full price for several months ago.

Monett urges all who might be interested to get at once as this offer is for a short time only.

BURGLAR INSURANCE PAID

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. DeLap received a check of $1250.50 from the Aetna Casualty and Surety company through Burg and Spurr, local agents for the company, yesterday to cover the loss incurred in the burglary at the Mira Vista home recently. This is the second burglary loss paid to DeLap by the company within a month. The first loss amounted to $320.00.

City To Extend Outfall Sewer

According to E. A. Hoffman, city engineer, the city of Richmond's application for a permit to extend the outfall of the sanitary sewer on the inner harbor has been granted by Colonel Schultz, government engineer in charge of the harbors and rivers for this district.

The plans and specifications for the work have already been drawn by Hoffman and they will be submitted to the city council Monday night. If the council approves the plans for the extension of the sewer, bids will be called for and the actual construction work will get under way in a short time.

Memorial Park Paths Planned

Tuesday, March 24th, city engineer E. A. Hoffman will have a party of men at work laying out the paths and roadways of Memorial park. Trees and shrubs have already been planted and with the laying out of the paths and the seeding with grass, Memorial park should soon be one of the show spots of the city.

Hoffman also announced that a contract had been let to Samuel Rogers for the construction of a reinforced concrete fire pump chamber under municipal wharf No. 1. Work on this will begin tomorrow.

HOME SEEKERS SHOW INTEREST IN NEW HOUSES

Great interest is being shown by home seekers, both the buyers and the renters, in the new attractive bungalows just completed by the Sydney S. Clark Company, on Pennsylvania Avenue near Fourth street.

To fill the requirements asked by most prospective buyers, these houses have been made complete in every detail. The house plan used is novel of itself, and the many features that have been installed make for the housewife a home long dreamed of.

These houses will be open for inspection from 10:30 a. m. on Sunday and all visitors will be cordially welcome. Each house is of five rooms and breakfast room. There is a large screened back porch with wash trays and plenty of room for a washing machine. All houses have hardwood floors, fire-place, buffet, tiled bathroom and tiled kitchen sink. The walls are papered and great care has been given to the selection of fixtures. There is a large garage with cement floor, and each place is fenced.

A very great feature to this entire development is the attractive terms given buyers, and the low price for the homes. The monthly payments are approximately $35.00 per month, and the first payment is a matter that can be arranged with most anyone.

Accident Driver Changes Plea, Is Fined $500 Here

Police Judge C. A. Odell, yesterday fined Charles Granzella $500 on a charge of possession and transportation of liquor, in violation of the Wright Act, when the accused man changed his plea, on the advice of his attorneys, from not guilty to guilty. Granzella at first demanded a jury trial but his attorneys Pierce and Carlson, advised him to change his plea.

Granzella was charged with the crime in January after a fatal accident when a Santa Fe train crashed into a automobile, killing one man. Granzella's car was damaged in the crash, and liquor was found in both wrecked cars.

ALBERTS WINS CASH REGISTER FIRM'S PRAISE

The National Cash Register company has just paid a splendid tribute to Richmond. A number of photographs has been taken of the exterior and interior of Alberts Department store, and some of these will be used in trade publications in various parts of the country. A magazine issued by the company will also contain some of these views and will be circulated throughout the English speaking world.

The great Dayton corporation has equipped Alberts with the most modern system of cash registers made by the company, and the agent of the company in this district said yesterday: "Richmond should be proud of such fine store as Alberts'. When a man or firm shows its faith in a city of the size of Richmond by investing $200,000 in building and stock, he certainly is a booster and I hope that the people of Richmond who expect their town to grow will reciprocate by making the business a success."

BIRTH IS REPORTED

According to a birth certificate on file with the city health department, a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carter, 2020 Macdonald avenue on March 16.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Beck of 324 Third street returned home yesterday from a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Nellie Elbers of Mandota.

HUDSON-ESSEX PLANT EXPANDS TO MEET TRADE

A program of plant expansion is announced by the Hudson Motor Car company which will permit a substantial increased production of Hudson and Essex cars. Officials of the company estimate that this expansion will be complete in the early summer and that it will give Hudson-Exsex one of the largest daily capacities of any manufacturer in the industry.

This expansion, it was said, will be made up of the extension of the main factory on East Jefferson avenue, Detroit, and the recently purchased Clayton and Lambert plant, which is only a short distance from the main Hudson-Exsex establishment. The latter plant will effect economies of manufacture in making various stamped and pressed steel parts for Hudson and Essex cars.

With this new extension and with the Clayton and Lambert purchase, the Hudson factory space will be increased to approximately 2,000,000 square feet. Not only will the space be increased it was said, but the present facilities will be more highly developed throughout the whole plant.

Hudson officials said that this expansion of the plant had become necessary because of the exceptional demand for Hudson and Essex cars—particularly coaches, which make up 50 per cent of Hudson-Exsex business.

Twelve Months Service Clinches Its Superiorities—

The Chrysler Six has given the motoring world something more than new results.

The car that created a new first-year production record, when more than 32,000 were built in the effort to satisfy the demand in 1924, has been in the hands of owners about one year.

How do these owners feel about the Chrysler Six today? How has the car behaved in actual daily service over a period of months? What is the present position of the Chrysler Six and its effect on the industry?

These are pertinent, sensible questions and any observant and unprejudiced person can answer them for himself.

For it is a notable fact that Chrysler owners who have been driving for months are as enthusiastic about their car as the men who created it. A year-old Chrysler delivers the same results as it did when it first revealed a new conception of performance. It has demonstrated in dramatic tests on road, track and hill its staunchness and stamina as well as its brilliance. But more important than this, it is as ready with its flashing performance after 12 months of steady daily service grind as it was the day it was built.

Naturally the confirmation of the soundness of Chrysler engineering and construction puts the final capstone on the Chrysler position in the industry. Ask Chrysler owners and also men handling other lines of cars what they think of the Chrysler Six. You will find that it is heir to both the advantages and the competitive handicaps that inevitably fall to the supremely successful in any line of industry.
